

POLICE BRIBERY
AGAIN CHARGED.
Patrolman Woodley Arrested for Taking $20 in an Excise Case.
ON KUDLICH'S WARRANT.
The Magistrate Refuses, However, to Discuss the Matter at Present.

WOODLEY SAYS IT'S A CONSPIRACY Declares That It Was Arranged by Henry Harms, a Lexow Witness, Whom He Had Previously Been Forced to Arrest.

Patrolman Henry Woodley, of the West One Hundredth Street Police Station, was arrested by Magistrate Flamminger in a charge of bribery. The examination was held down for 3 p. m. to-morrow, and Wood-ley was paroled in the custody of Police Captain Brown, of the precinct to which he is at present attached.

The charge against Woodley is the outgrowth of the recent struggle between Magistrate Kudlich and the Police Department over the alleged prevalence of corruption among members of the police force.
Woodley was arrested by Captain Brown on Sunday afternoon on a warrant issued by Magistrate Kudlich. The warrant was based on an affidavit by George Tropt, a bribe, of No. 23 East One Hundred and Ninth street.

Tropt swears that at 1:05 a. m. last New York's Day he was in the saloon of Gustav Stulp, at No. 184 East One Hundred and Ninth street. Tropt and Stulp are old friends. Patrolman Woodley, Tropt says, told the saloon keeper that he was under arrest for keeping open after hours, and then he left the saloon.

Woodley was on trial at Police Headquarters two weeks ago upon the complaint of Henry Harms, saloon keeper, of One Hundredth street and Third avenue, whom he and arrested for violation of the Excise law. Harms alleged that Woodley arrested him illegally, threatened to assault him and tore his clothing while searching him in the One Hundredth Street Police Station. Harms's saloon is in the East One Hundred and Fourth Street Precinct, and he said that Woodley had gone into another precinct just to make the arrest. Harms was a witness in the Lexow investigation.
The Police Headquarters trial of Woodley has not yet been settled.

The accused patrolman declares the present charge part of a conspiracy to injure him, arranged by Harms. He claims to have an affidavit by Tropt declaring that the charge of bribery is false.
Magistrate Kudlich, who is sitting in the One Hundred and Fifty-eighth Street Police Court, refused yesterday to discuss the arrest of Woodley, saying that as the matter was now before another Magistrate it would not be right for him to express any opinion about it.
